Guernsey welcomes first cruise ship for two years

Guernsey has welcomed its first cruise ship call since the autumn of 2019, having been closed to cruise vessels for the past two years.

Hanseatic Spirit arrived in St Peter Port on Friday (15 April) to officially mark the return of cruising to the island with passengers greeted by a performance from a local guitar band.

Around 165,000 passengers are expected to disembark in Guernsey across 84 ship calls until the end of October.

Ships due to visit St Peter Port this season include MSC Virtuosa, Royal Caribbean's Jewel of the Seas and Ambassador Cruise Line's newly launched Ambience.
