

Greenock

Located on Scotland's west coast, Greenock Cruise Port serves as the gateway to the vibrant city of Glasgow and the breathtaking landscapes of the Scottish Highlands. Strategically positioned along major maritime routes, it is a key stop for Northern European and British Isles cruise itineraries, offering travellers a perfect blend of cultural heritage and natural beauty.

The port features a dedicated cruise berth measuring 200 metres in length with a depth of 10 metres, accommodating ships up to 340 metres long. Its modern terminal ensures a seamless arrival experience, welcoming guests with efficient processing facilities and essential traveller amenities.

With Glasgow International Airport only 26 kilometres away, Greenock Cruise Port provides excellent connectivity for passengers, making it an accessible and enticing destination for cruise lines and travellers alike.

Global Ports Holding has signed a 50-year agreement with Clydeport Operations Limited, a subsidiary of Peel Ports Group, to operate Greenock Cruise Port in 2025. This agreement marked GPH's entry into Scotland and further strengthens its presence in the UK.
